

Albaranes Marc

Sculpteur :

terre cuite, bronze, acier

27 André Joly, 06300 Nice

Tel : 0033 493857278

albaranes@dbmail.com

Le Mythe d'Europa

Europe, fille du roi de Tyr, jouait avec ses compagnes sur le bord de la mer.
Zeus, prince des dieux de l'Olympe, l'aperçut occupée avec ses amies à composer des guirlandes de fleurs.
Son allégresse et sa beauté rendirent fou amoureux Zeus, qui prit immédiatement l'apparence d'un jeune taureau.
Il paraissait si doux quand il vint se coucher aux pieds de la jeune fille, qu'elle osa monter sur son dos.
Alors le taureau partit à la nage et traversa la mer jusqu'en Crète.

<http://web.artprice.com/store/Albaranes-Marc>

Albaranes Marc

Sculptor :

clay, bronze, steel

27 André Joly, 06300 Nice

☎ 0033 493857278

albaranes@dbmail.com

Le Mythe d'Europa

Cupid hits Zeus with an arrow, and the god instantly falls in love with a pretty mortal maiden, Europa. She goes down to the ocean with her friends to bathe and pick flowers, and Zeus arrives disguised as a magnificent bull. Europa climbs on top of his back, and as soon as she does, Zeus gallops away. Europa clings tightly to his horn as they gallop over the ocean. She is terrified But Zeus comforts Europa, explaining that he loves her and will bring her to his home island, Crête. When they arrive, Zeus transforms himself into a human and makes love to her. The people of Crête greet Europa with a bridal ceremony.

<http://web.artprice.com/store/Albaranes-Marc>